DEDICATION AT EL PASO

The day was the time of the winter and that enabled the Americans to come and the large, low back Spanish church was filled to overflowing. The Mexican people with their characteristic politeness gave up their comfortable seats for the American youngsters.
The priest had already given an address on the full extent of their advice, but when the appeal was made for the indulgence of $2000 it was noted that the church had been dedicated by...
