High School
in New Mexico.

I am very glad to be passed by the Board of the use of the university highest public school of expense as well as to bring all the larger building instead of tiered through the ward, that is the usual way in. All-newer and less expensive structures for them have schools for ten in each ward. We will a high school before expense has prevented it; in almost providential time the university built for the purpose, and final cost. This enables us to put our schools at once. Nothing is as this. We can not expect to settle here till there

Wright Hall would make an admirable high school for the city. If it can be had at reasonable rent the building should be erected by the city board of education for that purpose. The more and the better schools this city has the more good will be done.

Primer, the handsome thirty-negligible painter, who has been the constant companion of Capt. and Mrs. Forsyth for the past ten years, died last night. He will be missed by the guests of the Exchange hotel, and especially by the children with whom he was a great favorite.

All good citizens having the welfare of this city at heart should support this festival which is the most prominent factor in the advancement and progress of this city, to the best of their ability with job work, advertisements and subscriptions. This paper is constantly at work for this city and employs a large force whose salary is spent right here and helps to increase trade and business.

The following is the program for this evening's plaza concert by the 16th Infantry Band:

Deputy U. S. Marshal Loomis returned this morning from a week's absence in the central part of New Mexico, where he has been serving U. S. warrants and making arrests. He brought with him a little girl from Socorro, Maria Mendoza by name, whose mother was placed in jail at Socorro for violation of the Edmunds Act. At his request the Sisters of Charity here have taken charge of the unfortunate child and will care for her till her mother's case is disposed of.

Two Shooting Scraps - A $3,000 Robbery Green Goods Kidner Recaptured.

The Indians at Santa Clara pueblo celebrated their annual feast on Saturday, and it was witnessed by fully 1,000 people, many going from this city on an excursion over the narrow gauge road. In the midst of the festivities Vidal Sanchez and Manuel Lobato, two Mexicans, indulged in a shooting scrap, over Sanchez' wife, it is said. Sanchez opened the ball by firing at Lobato, and an unknown bystander received the bullet in his forehead. The missile struck the man between the eyes and glanced upward out at the top of the scalp. He will probably recover. Deputy Sheriff Hart was on the ground and arrested the two men. They were brought in on the train Saturday evening and placed in jail.

THE AZTEC SOLD.

A Gold Mine Deal Involving $1,50,000.

A Famous Property and Its Rich Surroundings.

Gen. T. B. Catron and Col. V. S. Shultz left yesterday for Trinidad, Colo., where they to-day meet representatives of British capitalists and where the purchase by these agents of the celebrated Aztec gold mine on the Maxwell land grant will be completed.

Negotiations in regard to this transaction have been going on for several months. Messrs. C. A. Ross and H. A. Thomas, of London, will make the first payment of $30,000 to-day. The price for the mine, and the new twenty-stamp mill with it, is $150,000, payable in three installments.

The property is owned by Messrs. J. Lynch of Trinidad; T. B. Catron and V. S. Shelby of this city. One of the original owners was the late Lucien B. Maxwell, the original grantee of the Maxwell grant. The mine is situated between the creek and the Ponil river and has been worked successfully since 1869. It was discovered by three miners in the spring of the year 1868. This was before the Maxwell grant was sold to the present company. The title is perfect and the company now receives a small royalty on the net output.

The mine since its first discovery and working has yielded large sums of money and is considered by experts to be one of the surest and best producers of gold in the west. The quartz in the Aztec contains a large proportion of pyroxide of iron, some feldspar, quartz in crystals, sulphate of copper and slate, the latter often contains free gold.

The pay ore is plentiful and in places is very rich, some times three and a half feet of rich ore being struck. The gold found is free from coating and generally about the size of gun powder. wire gold is also met with occasionally. The new mill is of modern construction and was put in about two years ago. It has worked well and satisfactorily. It is understood that the new owners will immediately put a large force of men at work and that both the mill and mine will be worked to their fullest capacity.

This will be great news to western Colfax county and will prove of great benefit to that region. It is well known that in western Colfax county and on the Maxwell land grant there are rich and east gold fields simply waiting the prospector, the miner and the capitalist to produce plentiful wealth. The Moreno gold fields, while they were being worked in the seventies, produced in one year $500,000 gold, coin value; the Ute Creek section, in which the Aztec is situated produced in one year over $300,000 gold, coin value; the Willow creek district produced in one year $240,000 gold, coin value. The Maxwell Land Grant company encourages prospecting and will make satisfactory terms with capitalists, miners and prospectors and will aid in every possible way to develop that region. There is not a richer gold section in all the southwest than the western part of Colfax county. This is embraced in the Maxwell land grant to which the company has perfect title and mineral claims can be procured and the safest and surest title can be had from the company at much less trouble and much less expense than from the United States for claims, mines and prospects situated upon public lands.

AMONG ORCHARDISTS.

Postmaster Weltmer's fine orchard in Tongue valley is flourishing. He has commenced budding several hundred young trees with nectarine and choice apricots.

Joe Anderson, the gardener who has charge of John H. Kamobel's orchard, brings the New Mexican a sample of apricots that can not be excelled in any land. In size and flavor the apricots from this orchard are truly enticing.

The Foster St. John is a superior new peach ripening here for the first time this season. It is a yellow meat, free stone, of rich exterior color, very firm when ripe and appears to be a better peach than the early Crawford. Grant Riverberg imported the stock from Huntville, Ark. His young trees yielded some 200 pounds of fruit this year.

Mr. Cockrell, entomologist at the Las Cruces college, has received from California a lot of diminutive beetles, and the parasites upon which they subsist. These beetles came originally from Australia, where the species is highly esteemed as an instrument for the destruction of insects which prey upon trees and vines. Mr. Cockrell will liberate these warriors in the Mesilla valley, and it is to be hoped they will devote all their energies to the extermination of parasites common to orchards and vineyards.

Do you read the testimonials published in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla? They are thoroughly reliable and worthy your confidence.
